Introduction:

Donyi Polo Cultural and Charitable Trust (DPCCT), based in Arunachal Pradesh, is committed to the upliftment of indigenous communities and the preservation of their cultural heritage. Through Gurukul-style indigenous schools and grassroots initiatives, DPCCT focuses on protecting the traditions and values of these communities and addressing core social needs. Among its key interventions is the organization of free health camps, which serve as critical support systems in regions where medical access is severely limited.

With continued support from RITES Limited under their CSR programme, DPCCT successfully conducted the second phase of its Free Mega Health Camp initiative across Papum Pare and Kra Daadi districts. The camps provided healthcare access to hundreds of residents and reinforced the Trust's outreach in underserved areas.

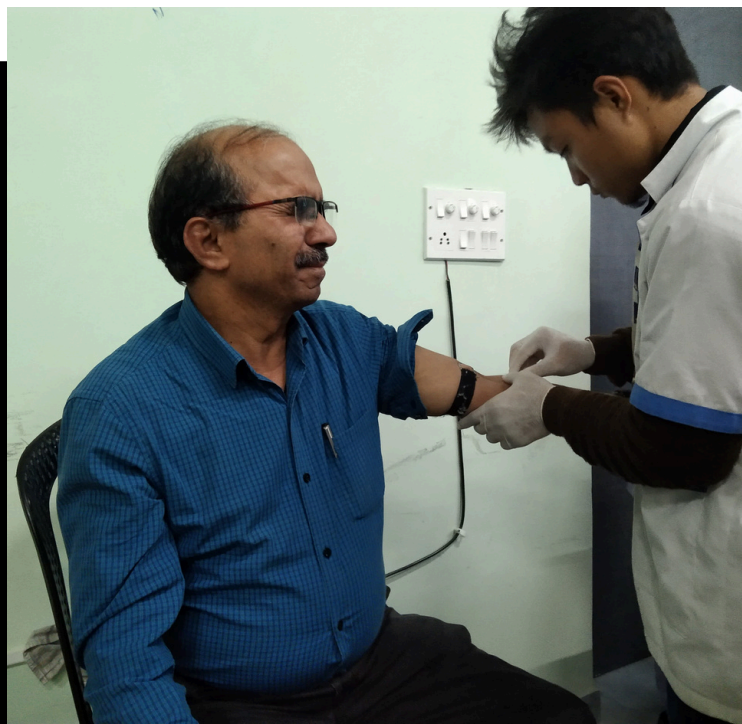

1ST FREE HEALTH CAMP AT NIT JOTE, PAPUM PARE DISTRICT, ARUNACHAL PRADESH

10/2/2025

On February 10, 2025, Donyi Polo Cultural and Charitable Trust conducted a free medical camp at NIT Jote village, Papum Pare district, Arunachal Pradesh. This initiative was organized in collaboration with the medical team from DB Healthcare and Diagnostic Centre, Homespital, and the District Health Society. A total of 129 patients attended the camp, where tests such as CBC, H. Pylori, among others, were conducted. Essential medical supplies, including IFA tablets to prevent and treat iron deficiency anemia and folic acid deficiency, as well as deworming tablets, were distributed free of charge. The initiative was carried out under the Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) program of RITES Ltd.

2ND FREE HEALTH CAMP AT NYOKUM LAPANG, ITANAGAR, PAPUM PARE DISTRICT, ARUNACHAL PRADESH

24/02/2025

On February 24, 2025, DPCCT conducted a free health camp at Nyokum Lapang Ground, Itanagar, Papum Pare district. The camp was organized in collaboration with D.B. Healthcare & Diagnostic Centre and Homespital, with generous support from RITES Ltd. under its Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) program. The initiative aimed to make essential healthcare services accessible to both local residents and the wider public. Held during the ongoing Nyokum festival celebrations, the camp was strategically timed and located to serve a larger population. As a result, medical services were extended not only to residents of the surrounding villages but also to numerous festival attendees from across the district. A total of 136 patients benefited from free medical consultations, basic diagnostic screenings, and essential medicines. The camp received an enthusiastic response and played a valuable role in providing timely health services during the cultural gathering.

3RD FREE HEALTH CAMP AT JULANG VILLAGE, KRA DAADI DISTRICT, ARUNACHAL PRADESH

28/02/2025

On 28th February 2025, DPCCT organized a free health camp in Julang village of Kra Daadi district, Arunachal Pradesh, in collaboration with D.B. Healthcare & Diagnostic Centre and Homespital. This initiative, held under the CSR support of RITES Ltd., aimed to extend critical healthcare services to one of the most remote and geographically challenging areas in the region. Julang village is situated deep within the Kra Daadi hills, where access to medical facilities remains extremely limited. The terrain, coupled with persistent cold and wet weather conditions, contributes to a high susceptibility to seasonal illnesses and chronic health issues among the villagers.

Despite these challenges, the camp witnessed encouraging participation, with 81 patients receiving free medical consultations, basic diagnostic check-ups, and essential medicines. The local residents responded warmly to the presence of the medical team, and the initiative helped to bridge a significant healthcare gap in the area.

4TH FREE HEALTH CAMP AT JORUNG VILLAGE, KRA DAADI DISTRICT, ARUNACHAL PRADESH

22/03/2025

On 22nd March 2025, DPCCT conducted a free health camp at Jorung village in Kra Daadi district, Arunachal Pradesh. Held in collaboration with Homespital—a D.B Healthcare Initiative—and Tassar Welfare Society, the camp was part of a continuing series supported by RITES Ltd. under its CSR program.

Located in a remote and hilly region under the Palin circle, Jorung village is a scenic settlement inhabited by members of the Nyishi community in Arunachal Pradesh. Much like Julang village, it faces significant challenges in accessing healthcare due to its difficult terrain and isolation. The camp addressed these gaps by providing diagnostic tests and distributing essential medicines to 88 beneficiaries, offering timely medical support to the local population.

5TH FREE HEALTH CAMP AT YAPAP VILLAGE, KRA DAADI DISTRICT, ARUNACHAL PRADESH

23/03/2025

Yapap village, nestled deep within the hills of Kra Daadi district, is one of the most remote settlements in the region, where access to basic healthcare remains minimal. The landscape and isolation make it particularly difficult for villagers to seek timely medical attention.

To address this gap, DPCCT, in collaboration with Homespital — a D.B Healthcare Initiative—and Tassar Welfare Society, organized the final free health camp of the phase II on 23rd March 2025, with CSR support from RITES Ltd. The camp provided diagnostic screenings and essential medications to 35 beneficiaries, ensuring crucial medical services reached those most in need.

Donyi Polo Cultural and Charitable Trust (DPCCT) extends its sincere appreciation to RITES Limited for their continued support of the Free Mega Health Camp initiative under their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) program. With their partnership, DPCCT successfully completed both Phase I and Phase II of the initiative, delivering free healthcare services to remote villages across Arunachal Pradesh. These efforts have brought significant relief to underserved populations by making essential medical care—including diagnostic support and free medicines—available at the grassroots level.

The initiative was especially well received by indigenous communities living in hilly and geographically isolated regions, where access to healthcare remains limited. Many villagers, including the elderly and those with limited mobility or financial means, were able to avail medical services for the first time in their own localities. The camps were welcomed with great appreciation, reflecting the deep need for such outreach. DPCCT acknowledges with gratitude the instrumental role RITES Limited has played in making these efforts possible and looks forward to continuing this meaningful association in service of the health and well-being of underserved communities in the region.
